

Using the Video Function

InnoWell is an interactive, health dashboard for individuals bringing a person's real time health data and their clinician together in the one place.

As a health professional this means you can work digitally, overcoming barriers of distance, acuity and need to support and coordinate care for the InnoWell clients in your service.

The dashboard contains a person's profile, health history and health data across a range of health cards, providing a multidimensional view of a person's health and wellbeing.

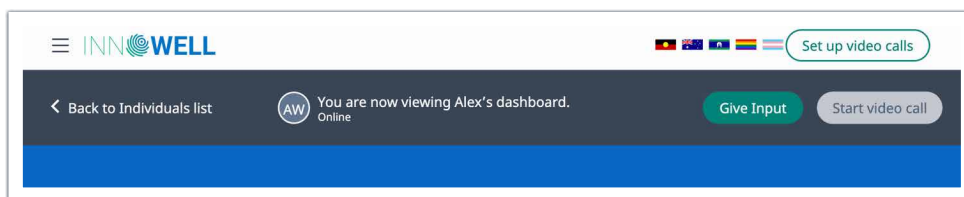

Individuals can interact with their dashboard and update their health card data at any time, providing real time feedback to communicate current need and indicate the level of care they might require. They can select care options that best help them to action their health goals and respond to emerging concerns.

You and your InnoWell clients can meet face to face through the video function. Through the dashboard you can discuss health care needs, complete relevant psychometric assessments, monitor progress and evaluate treatment outcomes, allowing you to truly personalise and tailor care.
